About Blue Collar Group: Blue Collar Silviculture Ltd. has been operating in British Columbia and Alberta since 1983. While the company became rooted in the reforestation industry through treeplanting activities, it has since expanded this division to include a variety of silviculture based services. In 2009, Blue Collar launched the First Nations Youth Training Program providing skills and training for Aboriginal youth to gain employment in the natural resource sectors. Blue Collar continued to grow and expand the business to include a construction based business in the forestry, mining, and oil and gas sectors, Blue Collar Camps. Amongst all of this development and change, Blue Collar remains firmly planted in its northern industrial communities where it maintains a corporate office and headquarters.
